

Hello, my name is Trayzell White. I am a 23 year old African American male born and raised in Sacramento, California. I am the middle child of 7 and also a fraternal twin out of one of two sets of twins that my mother had!

Since I was a child, I have always loved my community and have tried to lead with supporting positive community action. As a young LGBT Black man with a mental disability, I am passionate about using my story and my voice to promote cultural understanding between people of color, those with disabilities, and the LGBT+ community. My aspirations include lifting my community out of poverty and gang violence, being a professional motivational speaker, and maybe even someday becoming the mayor of Sacramento!

I'm so excited to work with NextGen as we engage with community and business leaders to address issues facing communities of color. These last few years have been difficult for all of us for different reasons, but thanks to organizations like NextGen and its sponsors, we will rise from this stronger together, like a Phoenix rises from the ashes!

In my spare time, I enjoy reading, writing music, rapping, and making inspirational videos. Please watch, listen and engage with me on Instagram @TrayzellWhite and on YouTube: TrayzellWhite.
